

- Our biggest change is that we switched from a multi-page design. Instead of separate pages for homepage, homepage after login, adding a story, etc. we kept everything on a single page. We did this because we thought it would be cleaner and more minimalistic for all the content to be on a single page.
- We changed the design of our database, because we realized that our original design for the database was not the most efficient way to store the data.